

Table 2: Summary of NLP Coaching Peer review papers

Research study	Brief summary of method, sample
Grosu, E.F., Grosu, V.T., Preja, C.A. Iuliana, B. B. (2014)	Study of Romanian Judo team members using Grindler and Bander questionnaire
Cassidy-Rice, J. (2014)	Case study of a business manager suffering with phobias
Peng, T. Yun, L., Weiquan, W., Jincong, Y. Dong, W. Yang, X, Jinzhi, X., Zengzhen, W. (2015)	180 patient RCT, measuring depression and anxiety, and the awareness of stroke knowledge.
Kudliskis, V. & Burden, R. (2009)	Case study reviewing application of NLP in sixth form (Year 13) students in one secondary school in the South West of England.
Blaskova, M., Blasko, R., Matuska, E. & Rosak-Szyrocka. (2015)	Questionnaire survey of Universities in Slovak Republic and Poland, with suggestions for how teaching quality could be improved.
Boughattas, W., Missoum, G. & Moella, N. (2017).	French language journal paper using experimental design with a sample of 20 junior judo competitors, with control group.
Grosu, E.F., Grosu, V.T., Popovici, S. Dumitrescu, M. (2015)	Experimental design, 11 to 15 years, from Romania ski competitors. A planned study to explore attention and anxiety comparing NLP and a control group, and exploring gender differences. No results reported.
Linder-Pelz, S. & Hall, M. (2008).	A conceptual and case study paper with a life coaching client
Moliušytė, S & Kvedaravičius, J. (2013).	A conceptual paper in Lithuanian exploring the potential of coaching and NLP to improve management performance
Knight, J. (2012).	A conceptual paper review the application of NLP to qualitative research
Moliušytė, S & Kvedaravičius, J. (2012).	A survey of business managers and their assumptions about learning styles of employees. The results revealed managers assume employees have same learning styles as they do.
Laposi, E. & Dan, I. S. (2014).	A review of NLP concepts in Romanian
Joey, L. & Yazdanifard, R. (2015)	A conceptual paper arguing the case for NLP
Stockdale, S. (2013).	A qualitative study using NLP modeling techniques as a guide to the interview process with driving instructors exploring their teaching methods.
Tosey, P. & Mathison, J. (2010).	Conceptual paper exploring links between psychophenomenology and NLP
Bimba, A., Idris, N ^o Al- Hunaiyyan, A. Mahmud, R. B., Abdelaziz, A., Khan, S. & Chang, V. (2016).	A literature review of modeling relevant to knowledge-based business management
Tee, S., Jowett, R. M. & Bechelet-Carter, C. (2009).	A mixed methods study, using survey and interview with 10 nursing students on the value of coaching as a learning approach.

Chuecos J. R. (2015).	A conceptual paper on NLP
Alexanders, J., Anderson, A. & Henderson, S. (2015).	A literature review study that reported physiotherapists appreciate the importance of using psychological interventions within their practice.
Hodgson, D. (2014).	A qualitative study exploring cancer patient and carer's attitudes. Concluded that training curriculum enhancements must focus on developing care and compassionate behaviours
Vlok, A. (2012)	A conceptual paper proposes a competency profile for innovation leaders derived from research in a SouthAfrican, with reference to NLP among a wide range of other models.
Gray,. E.,Ekinci, Y. & Goregaokar, H. (2011)	A mixed methods study examining the impact of a leadership development programme. Coaches with therapy or NLP backgrounds performed better than those with no therapy background. However, managers on the programme did not perceive the coaching to have had a significant impact on their development.
Anderson, J. (2007)	A practitioner paper examining the role of imagination, calling and emotions in leadership, and the role intuition can play in helping leaders, with reference to an NLP exercise for leaders to help them stay intuitive.
Boussebaa, M. & Morgan, G. (2008)	Case study focusing on management development, passing reference to NLP.
Reece, R. (1999)	Interview with a medical doctor about his practice, with passing reference to use of NLP as a communications tool.
Linder-Pelz, S.(2014)	A qualitative study based on a sample of 9 exploring the value of meta-modeling. The study concluded the approach was a valuable tool in coach competency development.
Segers, J., Vloeberghs, D., Henderickx, E., and Inceoglu, I. (2011)	Survey of Belgium coaches, sample of 83 exploring coaching practice. Noted the popularity of NLP coaching in Belgium, and the fact this was due to one of the first training schools in the country using this approach.
Kay, D. (2013)	Conceptual paper about a splinter method from NLP
Jinks, D. & Dexter, G. (2012)	Conceptual paper about the limitations of coaching setting in coaching, with a passing reference to NLP.
Bailey, L. F. (2014)	Conceptual paper review qualitative research methods, with a passing reference to NLP as a possible research tool in qualitative research interviews.
Turaga, R. (2016).	Conceptual paper offering a range of communications skills from open questions, non-verbal communications etc, with a passing reference to NLP.

Losada, S. J. V. (2009).	A Spanish paper in a practitioner journal advancing the case for role of NLP as a useful tool in coaching and consulting.
Titkos, C. (2012)	A conceptual paper exploring the role of personality development. The paper argues that NLP is a specialist tool for enabling this change along with psychodrama.
Tosey, P. Lawley, J. & Meese, R. (2014)	Conceptual paper making the case for 'clean language' as interview tool in qualitative research.
Shyamsunder, A., Anand, S.; Punj, A.; Shatdal, A. et al (2011).	Series of case study about leadership development and the role of NLP as a communication skill forming part of a programme.
Fontannaz, S. (2017)	Book Review
Woodall, J. & Douglas, D (1999).	This wide-ranging paper examined ethical practice across leadership training. It noted the development of NLP, questioned its lack of ethical practice and also noted that few NLP practitioners were willing to engage in their research study.
Wruk, B. & Hebert, D. (2003)	Conceptual paper about the role of NLP tools in financial planning interviews to map client personality
Hrop, S. (2004)	Book review
Huczynski, A. A. (1993)	Conceptual paper review of management fads, with passing reference to NLP